miral Scaton Schroeder, the foreign navies were represented in all by sixteen fighting craft. Great Britain had four; Germany, four; France, two; Italy, two; Mexico, one; Argentine one; and Cuba, one.

Their massive hulls represent the highest development in construction from the great shipyards on the Clyde and the best efforts of German naval construction. The trimmest ships of France, the pick of the fleet of Italy are most impressive—emissaries from the old world to the new.

Swift cruisers with triple expansion engines and long rakish lines like greyhounds of the ocean; massive gunboats mounted on turrets to the fighting tops with batteries of the highest type, swift torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers, wonderful submarines—every type of fighting ship known to the United States and eight other navies, four of them world-powers, are in this impressive assembly.

top was dislodged by the vibration caused by a neighboring engine falling 30 feet, striking him a glancing blow on the back of the head which laid him out, bleeding and unconscious. The slugs would have poured in and smothered him then and there had not one of his assistants started to go to the top and discover that the ladder was missing. Dr. E. E. Loomis, who attended him, found it necessary to take 10 stitches to close the serious wound. He was unable to find evidences that the skull was fractured but Mr. Fisher complained of experiencing pain in the neck. Unless developments that some internal injury had been sustained or infection set in, his chances for recovery are excellent.

Own Your Own Cigar Store

50 Golden Crown Cigars regular price $1.00 and a beautiful cigar chest, regular price $3.50, both for $4.00. The cigar chest is glass lined and we guarantee that it will keep cigars in perfect condition. The purpose of this offer is to introduce our brands of cigars direct to smokers in box lots.

We never fill an order without freely offering to refund the money, if there is the slightest dissatisfaction with either Chest or Cigars.

A few words on the cigar business in general. Do you know a Havana Cigar when you smoke it? Do you know that a Havana Cigar fit to smoke cannot be sold under 10¢ direct to smoker? If you are an old smoker you can see you have smoked up thousands of cigars supposed to be "Havana" that never saw Cuba. That worn out deception does not figure in this business. By telling facts we are making steady customers who believe in us. We import most of our Havana cigars direct from Tampa, Florida, and keep them in specially built humidor, similar to the one offered above, except of much larger size.

ABOUT THE CHEST. It holds 100 cigars and keeps them in perfect condition to the very last smoke. No blotter pads or sponges to trouble with. We give it to you with your first order because we want you to smoke our cigars in proper condition and to convince you that we can save you considerable on your smoking bill. The chest is handsomely finished in wood, is glass lined, has heavy, insulated walls, and is strictly sanitary.

People say that they do not see how we can make this offer. There is no mystery about it. We are content with moderate profits and our cigars good enough to bring in sufficient re-orders to pay us for the chests we give away.

OUR PROPOSITION. Send us $4.00 and we will send you 50 Golden Crown Cigars and the cigar chest. State preference for mild, medium or strong.

REMEMBER. If chest or cigars are not up to your expectations, return at our expense and we will return your money.

ENGINEER INJURED IN ELKHORN WRECK

David Gilbert, in Charge of Special from Janesville, Has His Foot Crushed.

In a collision at Elkhorn yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock between two special trains on the C. M. & St. P. R. R., Engineer David Gilbert of Chicago, who is well known in this city, was badly injured and it is feared that it will be necessary to amputate one of his feet. Engineer Gilbert and Conductor A. J. Corbett of Janesville had charge of a special Janesville passenger train, headed by a big compound engine, No. 1611, which was standing on a siding near the fair grounds, when another special from Libertyville, piloted by Engineer Dowley, crashed into them, overturning Gilbert's engine and plunging him beneath the wreckage. When rescued it was found that his foot had been badly crushed, but that otherwise he was uninjured. Both engines suffered considerable damage, but no other injuries have been reported.

THREE DRUNKS SENTENCED IN COURT THIS MORNING

One of Them, Frank Yeomans, Implicated in Difficulty Concerning Lost Watch.

Joe Siler, James Gowman and Frank Yeomans were brought up in court this morning charged with being drunk and disorderly. Neither Yeomans nor Siler could pay a fine amounting to $3.10 and both went to jail for five days. Yeomans, a typical tramp, was given until noon to get out of town. It was thought that another charge, in addition to the one of drunkenness, might be brought against Yeomans by George Torry, who claims that the prisoner is in possession of a watch which was lost some time ago and which Yeomans refuses to produce. Yeomans admits that he found the watch and attempted to return it for the reward, but when that was held back until the owner could identify the chronometer, he lost track of the taker and is unable to locate it.

STAMPS ISSUED FOR HUDSON AND FULTON

Were Placed on Sale by Postmaster Valentine Today—Issue is Limited.

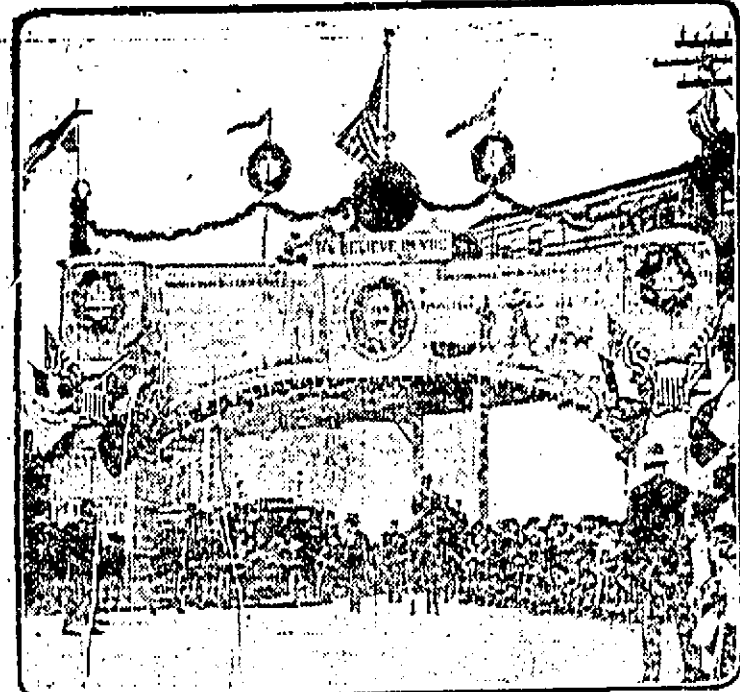

Postage stamps, issued in honor of the Hudson-Fulton Centenary and commemorating the discovery of the Hudson river by Hendrick Hudson in 1609 and of the introduction of steam navigation upon its waters by Robert Fulton in 1807, have been issued by the U. S. Government and were placed on sale at the Janesville postoffice today.

The new stamp is oblong in shape, about one and three-eighths inches long and seven-eighths of an inch in width. It comprises a border containing at the top the inscription, "Hudson-Fulton Celebration" with the dates 1609 and 1809 immediately under and on either side. Below this inscription is a curved line and the number "10 C. Postage." The arabic number "2" with the words "Two Cents" is found in a panel. In the center is a picture showing the Half Sable of the Hudson with the Half Moon and Clermont sailing in the foreground on the river. In the background is an Indian in a canoe and in the distance are other Indians paddling a canoe and representing the primitive means of navigation. The stamp is printed in the same color as the regular two-cent stamp.

WEE FOLKS' BAND HELD A DELIGHTFUL MEETING

Children's Society of the Congregational Church Met Yesterday Afternoon.

One hundred children, in addition to sixty older people, attended the autumn meeting of the Wee Folks' Band, held at the Congregational church yesterday afternoon. At the close of an interesting program, the little ones were seated at prettily decorated tables and served with a dainty supper, while their elders partook of refreshments in an adjoining room. During the afternoon a telegram from Mrs. Denison, who organized the band, but who is now in New Haven, Conn., was read to the members. Much of the credit for the success of the meeting was due to Mrs. E. A. Spoon who took over the management of the society when Mrs. Denison left. The offerings, collected in little white barrels by the children, amounted in all to twenty-one dollars.

"I'm mighty curious," said the insurance man, "how many ignorant people there are still left in the world."

"Is it in connection with your late summer vacation?" was asked.

"It is, but it's nothing about me. I was up at Lake George, you know, great place for canoeing, great place for moonlight nights, great place for a fellow to sit down in a canoe and let her drift out the shimmering waters and do some meditating."

"But you did it?"

"And the shinner?"

"Oh, it was right there, boy, every little wavelet seemed made of molten silver, and the reflection of the stars was like diamonds holding up to the surface."

"But get on with the ignorance. Who was ignorant?"

"I was watching over that shimmering silver sea when a gun went off and a load of buckshot tore the bow of the canoe almost off. It was fired from the shore."

"Attempted assassination, eh?"

"Oh, no—simply ignorance. I kind of stood up and yelled out to know who was shooting and a fellow appeared on the bank and said it was he."

"What did he shoot at?"

"At you," says he.

"What for?"

"I took you for a hippopotamus."

"And there is where the ignorance comes in," concluded the insurance man. "There hadn't been a hippopotamus seen in America for the last 300 years, and the damned fool didn't know it."

"I'm working in a factory for $2 a day and trying to bring up a starving family. Labor Day comes around and I get ready to parade. I am in line when the boss comes along and wants to crowd in beside me."

"What do you want here?" says I.

"I want to parade," says he.

"But what for?"

"To show that I'm a laboring man," says he.

"But you ain't; you are the boss of the factory."

"Jim," says he, "you are a laboring man."

"I am that."

"For $2 a day."

"That's the starvation figure."

"Then let me tell you that I have to spend $4 laboring around to borrow the $2 to pay you. I'll be along and let a down-trodden factory owner into the procession!"

Making Money On the Farm

XVII.—Small Fruit Culture

By G. V. GREGORY.

Author of "Home Course in Modern Agriculture"

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

SMALL fruit can be grown almost as easily as corn or oats if it is done at the right way. A liberal quantity grown at home is a luxury that is within the reach of every farmer. Grown on a larger scale, the small fruits are among the most profitable crops that the farm will produce.

The best liked and most widely distributed small fruit is the strawberry. The best soil for the strawberry bed is a sandy loam. Strawberries do better on light soils, and the berries are larger and of better quality. If you have no light soil that can be used for the strawberry bed you can greatly improve a heavy soil by manuring it well. Of course it must be well drained, in order that it may warm up, quickly in the spring instead of remaining soggy for several weeks and then baking hard, as undrained soils are so liable to do.

Deep plowing, with thorough disking and harrowing, is necessary in order to get the land into the best condition. Strawberries should follow some cultivated crop which has been kept free from weeds. It will then be easier to prepare the seed bed, and the patch will be free from weeds and insects.

Strawberries are particular in their soil requirements, and a little care in preparation will add greatly to the size of the crop. Too little attention is given to this most important requisite. Many persons do not seem to be aware that the strawberry is at all particular about the soil in which it is put. As a consequence they prepare their beds without any reference to this essential factor in the success of their enterprise and, of course, are doomed to disappointment in the outcome.

Varieties of Strawberries.

Varieties of strawberries are divided into two general types—the perfect and the imperfect flowered. The imperfect variety contains only the female organs or pistils, while the perfect sorts contain both stamens and pistils. The imperfect varieties can produce no fruit unless fertilized with the pollen from the flower of a perfect variety. It is very important that attention be paid to this point in planting. Many of the imperfect sorts possess points of superiority over the perfect varieties. They can be successfully grown by planting every fifth row to a perfect flowered variety. This row will furnish pollen for the two rows on either side of it. In setting out a bed in this way care must be taken to see that the two varieties come into bloom at the same time.

Perfect and imperfect varieties cannot be told apart except when in bloom. Then the absence of the row of pistils around the petals marks the imperfect sort. Lists of varieties of strawberries always specify whether they are perfect or imperfect. A reliable nurseryman can be depended upon to give you what you ask for. A list of the varieties best adapted to your locality can be obtained from your experiment station.

The strawberry is propagated almost entirely by runners. At each joint in the runner a new plant appears and takes root. Only plants less than a year old should be selected for planting. The crown should not be too large and the roots thick and long. The presence of large woody roots and a heavy crown indicates that the plant is an old one. If there are many leaves it is well to pluck off one or two of the largest to correspond to the injury to the root system.

Planting Strawberries.

Spring planting is the most reliable, but where the fall is moist or the patch can be readily watered fall planting gives very good results. The two important points in planting are spreading the roots and packing the dirt tightly about them. The plants should be set so the crowns are just level with the surface of the ground.

Hills Versus Matted Rows.

Strawberries are grown both in hills and in rows. In the hill system the plants are set about three feet apart. The runners are cut off in order to make a compact, vigorous hill. The size and quality of the berries are better under the hill system, but the matted row system gives larger yields. In this the plants are set from ten to twelve inches apart in rows four feet apart. The runners are trimmed to make a matted row about two feet wide. The spaces between the rows should be kept well cultivated during the early part of the season and the weeds pulled in the rows. After the second year the runners can be allowed to fill these open spaces and the original rows plowed up. In this way the bed can be easily renewed and kept bearing for several years, usually until the land becomes so weedy that it must be plowed up and put in to some other crop.

In cold climates the strawberries must be given some sort of winter protection. The object of this is not so much to prevent freezing as to keep the ground from that alternate freezing and thawing which causes heaving of the plants. A mulch of coarse horse manure applied after the ground freezes is excellent for this purpose, as it adds fertility at the same time. In the spring the straw can be raked up and removed. One necessary precaution is to be sure that the manure is free from weed seeds. I have seen strawberries ruined because the mulch contained timothy hay in which the seeds were ripe enough to grow.

Raspberries and Blackberries.

Next to strawberries in importance are raspberries and blackberries. The best soil for blackberries is about like that for strawberries, while for raspberries it may be a little heavier. The two kinds of raspberries most extensively grown in this country are red and black. The red raspberry is propagated by shoots which grow up from the roots. One-year-old shoots are preferable for planting. The rows should be at least four feet apart, with the plants two feet apart in the row. Frequent and thorough cultivation is necessary to keep down the suckers which grow up from the roots. It is a good plan to plow the ground between the rows every spring.

Black raspberries do not send up root shoots. They are propagated by burying the tips of the shoots in the ground some time in August. These take root and produce new plants, which can be transplanted the following spring. The black raspberries are more rank in their habits of growth and should be planted further apart than the red varieties. Planting every three feet in rows seven to eight feet apart is a good distance. They should receive thorough cultivation in the same manner as the red sorts.

The application of a coat of manure between the rows in the fall will materially increase the yield of all small fruits. Pruning is also important. Blackberry and raspberry shoots bear but once, so in the spring all those which produced fruit the season before should be cut out. Black raspberry shoots should have the tip clipped off when they are about eighteen inches high. This causes lateral branches to form and greatly increases the yield. The same treatment should be given to blackberries. After about four good crops of raspberries have been secured the patch should be plowed up and a new one started somewhere else.

Blackberries are usually propagated by suckers. The distance apart is about four feet in the row, with rows seven feet apart. The proper depth to set the plants is about four inches. It is a common practice to plant a row of potatoes or some other vegetable between the blackberry rows the first season. This can also be done with black raspberries. About four or five blackberry shoots are all that should be allowed to grow up the first season. After that the number may be gradually increased. A well established blackberry patch will last six or seven years. The yields that may be secured depend largely upon the froquency of rainfall during the ripening season. A little dry weather at this time will result in shrivelled, worthless berries.

In sections where the winter is severe the best results cannot be obtained from raspberries and blackberries unless some sort of protection is given. The simplest method of doing this is by bending the canes down along the row and covering them with dirt.

Currents and Gooseberries. A clayey loam soil, with plenty of moisture, is best for currents and gooseberries. They do all the better for a little shade and are not so particular about cultivation as the other small fruits. A heavy mulch of straw or coarse manure may be used to keep down the weeds and conserve moisture and cultivation dispensed with entirely.

A few bushes set along a fence row will furnish enough of this kind of fruit for the family. They are propagated by cuttings, pieces of branches which are planted in moist earth, where they take root. Two-year-old plants are best for planting. Being harder than the other small fruits, currents and gooseberries will stand fall planting. Indeed, this is almost a necessity, since they start growing almost as soon as the ground thaws in the spring. All weak and old branches should be cut out early each spring. Currents and gooseberries will continue to yield profitable crops on the same ground for a long time.

CONTENTION AMONG UNIONISTS.

Montana Mines Close Down Because of Fight Between Unions.

Butte, Mont., Sept. 25.—As a result of a jurisdictional fight between the Western Federation of Miners and the holding engineers, 80 per cent. of the mines of the Butte district are closed down.

A majority of Engineers' union No. 53 having seceded from the Western Federation of Miners and organized a new union, the Butte miners' union ordered its members not to go to work in mines employing members of the new engineers' union.

The only mines working are the Mountain Consolidated, Belmont and Never Sought of the Anaconda Company, the Silver Bow of the Butte & Boston, and the West Column of the Boston & Montana.

All the mines of the Red Metals Company, North Butte Company, Pittsburg & Montana, Davis-Daly of W. A. Clark and the remaining mines of the Amalgamated Copper Company are closed. The pumps are being operated as usual.

VERDICT IN ELSIE SIGEL MURDER

Coroner's Jury Say Girl Was Strangled by Leon Ling.

New York, Sept. 25.—Elsie Sigel, the young missionary to Chinese of this city, was strangled to death by Leon Ling, according to the verdict of the coroner's jury. With the police of the world hunting for Ling since the girl was murdered on June 10 the formal announcement of the cause of her death has been delayed by the chemists' examination of the body.

Tosses Baby from Window.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 25.—Anna Gellish, wife of Private Gellish of the Tenth Infantry, tossed her baby out of an upper story window of her home and jumped herself, to escape fire. Both the woman's legs were broken, but the child was not hurt.

3,000 Dead in Mexican Flood.

Monterrey, Mex., Sept. 25.—Gen. Trevino, military commander of the district of northern Mexico, who has directed the distribution of aid through the section swept by the recent flood, estimates the number of lives lost at 3,000.

Burned to Death.

Americus, Ga., Sept. 25.—One person was burned to death, another instantly killed and a third seriously burned when an automobile, driven by John McLendon, ran off an eight-foot embankment here.

Bandit Fires on Messenger.

Savannah, Ga., Sept. 25.—It is believed an attempt was made to hold up the east-bound Central of Georgia passenger train when some one from the roof of the express car fired on Messenger Feyres. The shot were very near the head of the messenger, who returned the fire with his rifle. The train at the time was between Gordon and McIntyre and was stopped at the latter place. As it did so a man was seen to run into the woods and disappear.

"Imperial Decree" for Prayer.

Here is an "imperial decree" from the North China Daily News: "Decree commanding Prince Tsai Hien, Tsai Tso, Pu Lun, etc., to offer up incense in the temple of the Great Exalted One and other shrines as a plentiful shower of rain has not resulted from former prayers offered up."

A Correct Guess.

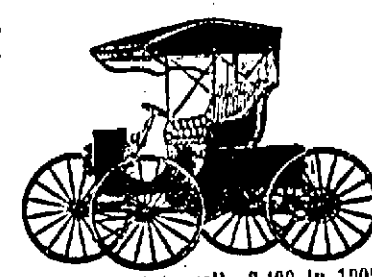

"Dear me," said the lady who had gone to the public library, as she picked up a soiled volume, "this must be an awfully naughty book. See how it is tattered and worn by much handling and the title page shows that it was published this year."

Much Virtue in a Pet Fad.

Hunt for a pet fad. It will be the best resource in time of worry, and the best consolation you have ever had. Take up a harmless fad, if it is no more important than collecting stamps or post cards.—Exchange.

FOUND AT LAST

The McIntyre, a car so simple in construction you can repair it yourself. One that saves you that big expense for pneumatic tires and a barrel of trouble.

Buggies, Surries, Limousines and Limabouts. Solid rubber and high wheels. Will run any time you can run a buggy. Freezing does not affect the tires or air-cooled motor. Not a surprise package, but a car with a reputation. 1200 sold in 1899; and we expect to sell 2,400 in 1909. Car is in Janesville on Saturdays. Write for catalogue or information. Prices from $375 to $900.

THE "FAVORITE"

King of All Base Burners

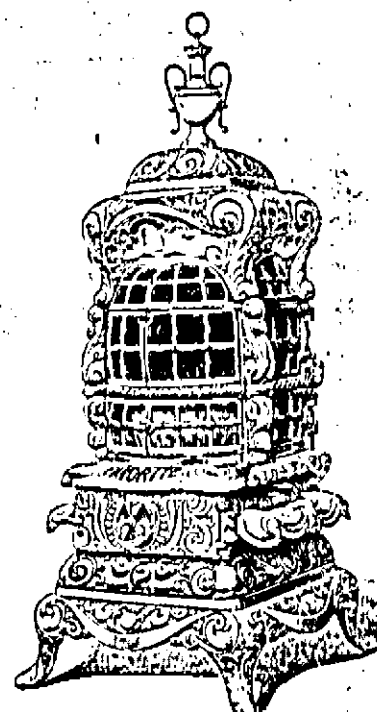

Economy. Beauty. Efficiency

FUEL ECONOMY is the first consideration in buying a base burner. A strong feature of the Favorite is that it will save you nearly half your coal bill.

BEAUTY is very desirable. A base burner should add to the decoration of a home. This one is handsomely ornamented in brilliant nickel finish. It is "a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

EFFICIENCY should be the highest. The Favorite will radiate more heat, for coal used, than any other stove made. It has more radiating surface than any other stove because of its THREE EXPOSED FLUES in the back, instead of the usual two. Its air circulation is ideal, distributing heat to every available radiating surface.

Nothing better has been made, or will be than the Favorite. It will last for years and years. Nothing should take its place in YOUR HOME.

away the old home becomes more attractive because of the love which continues to enfold it.

But from such environments the boy is often disappointed when he faces life, and for the first time stands on his own feet, and is asked to meet his responsibilities. He finds the world ready to try him out, and soon discovers that a mother's indulgence and father's patience is lacking.

The first night finds him tired and homesick, but when he shows up half an hour late the next morning the only greeting is, "Late, my boy; don't let it occur again," and he realizes that school has begun.

Before the first month closes the studies pile up so fast that he does not have time to master them, and yet he is only on the edge of the crucible. Tardiness no longer annoys for one lesson was sufficient, but he discovers that his penmanship is bad and composition worse and that both must be improved if he would hold his job.

Then, too, his memory is bad and he is constantly forgetting to do things. He knows that this fault must be speedily corrected. He had read somewhere that the boy who gets to the front is the boy who does not only what he is told to do, but who is constantly making himself useful by finding things to do, and he discovers that he has but little ambition along this line.

One day the manager finds him smoking a cigarette and says to him, "My boy, that's a coffin nail, and all you have to do to shorten your life 20 years, and destroy your usefulness before you reach middle life is to cultivate the habit."

His mother would have pleaded with him, but there was neither plea nor command about the cold, hard statement. He could do as he pleased, and for the first time he realized that habits have much to do with destiny.

"It's up to you," not always said, but always implied, is the cold, hard greeting which awaits every boy when he enters the great arena where the conflict wages and is ever on.

The roadway is lined with derelicts—men who fail to make good and drop out by the way. They complain of hard luck, lack of opportunity, the unequal distribution of wealth, and various other causes which led to failure, but with rare exception, the fault is with the man.

They were tested in the crucible and found wanting. Many of them are honest, but honesty is simply the foundation on which the structure is built, and unless reinforced by ambition, intelligence, fixedness of purpose and faithfulness in service without regard to the clock, the building will never assume proportions.

It is a mistaken notion that the world owes any man a living. The obligation is on the other side, every man owes to the world the best that is in him, and when this fact is recognized reward is as sure to follow effort, as time is to pass.

The young man who enters active life in these opening years of the new century is rich in inheritance, for the work of the pioneer has been accomplished, and the rough places have been made smooth.

Highways, the great arteries of civilization, have redeemed the plains and deserts and a beckoning hand invites him to occupy.

There is no lack of opportunity, for it waits at every corner, and the young man who fails to grasp it is so obtuse that there is but little hope for him.

The world pays dividends to the men who recognize their obligations, and invest freely of the best there is in them, just as the soil responds to the touch of the intelligent husbandman.

Capital is never lacking for the young man who demonstrates by thrift and economy, ability to handle it, for money is an intimate thing, ever waiting for the touch of capable management.

This trying out process is the first lesson in the primary department in the great university of life, and it goes on through every stage of the journey.

It means more to the young man than to the man in middle life because the highway stretches out before him, and it is for him to determine whether he shall win or lose in the race.

If he makes good on the first lap of the journey, success is assured, for destiny is largely decided before the halfway mile post is passed.

"It's up to you," what will you do with it?

BUY IT IN JANESVILLE.

The little company of men who met last evening to discuss the welfare of Janesville represent a scattered sentiment which would prove a mighty force if organized and working together for the common good, for every intelligent taxpayer realizes that something should be done to promote the growth of the city.

The Commercial club, already in existence, is a good organization and only needs strength and hearty cooperation to make it a power for good. To this end committees were appointed to wait on the manufacturers, and the business and professional men with a view to interest all classes in the good work.

This, of course, means money in liberal amount, for not less than $5,000 a year is necessary to carry on a vigorous campaign. If this amount is secured it will require a good many $100 subscriptions and many more of from $25 to $50, but it is worth the effort.

Other cities are working successfully along the same lines and what others are doing Janesville can do. United effort and enthusiasm is what is needed. Let everybody lend a hand.

New York has a million guests, and expects as many more. The Hudson-Pulton celebration comes but once in a lifetime, and the attractions offered put Coney Island in the shade.

When Gallinger and Pinchot met at Salt Lake City the atmosphere was decidedly chilly, in spite of the genial smile and cordial greeting of President Taft.

Wayman continues to stir up the animals in Chicago and the courts as well as the criminals are resolving attention. Jury-box stuffing seems to have been a popular pastime.

Cook will sue Peary, and if he secures judgment the North pole will be fenced in and the general public notified to "Keep off the grass."

THE BIG HISTORICAL PAGEANT ON HUDSON

German Commander who inquired before Dowsy went into action and while the attitude of the German fleet, then at anchor in the same waters, was still a matter of anxiety what action the English proposed to take, won him instant popularity in this country and passed into history, crystallized in the aphorisms of Mr. Dooley:

"That," said Sir Edward, with significant ambiguity, "is a matter known only to Admiral Dowsy and myself."

Admiral Dowsy became still better and even more favorably known to Americans during the international occupation of Jekyll at the time of the boxer uprising. His fleet here consisted of the armored cruisers "Inflexible" (17,500 tons, 25 knots), "Drake" (14,100 tons, 21 knots), "Arcturion" (10,500 tons, 23 knots) and "The Duke of Edinburgh" (13,520 tons, 22 knots).

The German Visitors.

Grand Admiral von Koster is also well known to Americans. An intimate friend of the Kaiser, 60 years an officer, and one of the commanders which drew up the plans resulting in the German-American border clashes at Kiel and Marchion, he recently retired as Commander-in-Chief of the Imperial navy to be succeeded by Prince Henry of Prussia. He consented, however, to accept the presidency of the German Navy League and his appointment to the Hudson-Fulton command is both a compliment to his own honorable career and to this country. His fleet consisted of the cruisers "Dresden" (3,544 tons), "Horch" (5,599), "Victoria Luise" (5,599) and "Bromon" (3,200).

France sends three battleships under Admiral de Pour-de-la-Vie: the "Verite" (14,635 tons), "Justice" (14,435) and "Liberte" (14,635). Italy sends two—the "Istria" and "Etna"; the Argentine Republic, the Netherlands, Mexico and Cuba, one each.

Program for the Week.

Tomorrow there will be a commemorative service in many churches, and in the evening an Irish concert in Carnegie hall and a German concert in the Hippodrome. For the remainder of the week every day is full of events of interest. Briefly, the program is as follows:

Monday—Official reception to guests, opening of historical exhibitions and beginning of athletic fights; also dedication of Pallasades Interstate park and the Henry Hudson Monument at Spuyten Duyvil.

Tuesday—Historical parade and pageant, participated in by all nationalities; procession of floats and moving tableaux representing principal events in history of aboriginal, Dutch, English, revolutionary and American periods.

Wednesday—Aquatic sports opposite Riverside park and Yonkers; General commemorative exercises in educational institutions throughout the state; also dedication of memorials throughout the state; ceremonies of "Bronx Borough Day" in that borough; children's festivals in Richmond borough; reception by United States authorities to official guests at West Point.

Thursday—Military parade in Manhattan borough, participated in by United States army, navy and marine corps, National Guard, Naval Militia, veteran organizations and marines and sailors from foreign vessels.

Friday—Naval parade of naval vessels, merchant marine, excursion boats, pleasure craft, etc.

Saturday—Children's festivals in 50 centers in Greater New York, conducted in view of 500,000 school children; dedicatory exercises at Stony Point. In the evening great carnival parade in Manhattan.

The celebration will be continued through the second week in all the towns on the Hudson river north of New York, closing on the evening of October 9 with an illumination consisting of a chain of great beacons three on mountain tops and other points from Staten Island to the head of navigation, accompanied by pyrotechnic displays.

More Details.

Life Insurance Agent—I'd like to write you up a policy if you haven't all the life insurance you think you need.

Cholly Knickerbocker—You'll have to see my valet, old chap; he attends to all such matters, don't bother me.

Appendicitis Defined.

"Father," said little Holo, "what is appendicitis?"

"My son," answered the cynical parent, "appendicitis is something that enables a good doctor to open up a man's anatomy and remove his entire bank account."—Washington Star.

CONSIDERATE.

Father (calling downstairs)—Mary, just ask your young man if he doesn't think it's pretty near bedtime.

Mary—Yes, papa, and George says if you're sleepy, go to bed by all means.

Life of the Red Deer.
According to an old Gaelic legend a red deer might live for 210 years, an eagle for 630, and an oak tree for nearly 19 centuries! Nowadays, however, 100-year-old deer would be difficult to find. From 25 to 35 years apparently may be about the range of their existence.—Country Gentleman, London.

Adding a Prefix.
Says Black and White: "At this time of year the pretty woman becomes even prettier than before. Even the plain woman assumes a certain comeliness." As far as our observation goes "an uncertain comeliness" would, perhaps, better describe it.—London Globe.

"Alleluia" Scared the Heathen.
Alleluia or hallelujah victory was a victory by the Saxons under St. Germanus over the Picts and Britons. The Christians all shouted "Alleluia!" and so terrified the heathen that they took to flight.

TOO LOUD.
Jack—Say, Tom, will you do me a favor?
Tom—Anything in reason, old man.
Jack—Then kindly leave your trousers out in the hall tonight.
Tom—The ideal! What do you want me to do that for?
Jack—The pattern is so loud they will keep me awake.

Millinery Opening

FALL OF 1909

Wednesday, Sept. 29

THE SHOWING of new pattern hats which begins next Wednesday marks the beginning of the coming millinery season. The result of a number of visits to the market by Miss O'Neil and Mrs. Walker will be seen in the unequalled display which will mark this opening. A great array of exclusive models such as will appeal to critical women. You are invited to attend Wednesday as well as any day later.

Chartier Shorthand

This system is being taught by 400 of the leading Commercial Schools of America. Chartier Shorthand marks as wonderful a change in the field of shorthand as wireless telegraphy marked in the world of invention. It is bound to eventually drive all other systems out of existence, because—

- It can be written much more rapidly.
- It is less difficult to understand.
- It can be read like print.

It can be learned in ONE-HALF THE TIME under S. W. B. C. instructors that it takes to acquire other systems. We have taught three Pitmanic system and the Gregg and still teach any of these to those who so desire, and HAVE PROVED by actual work in the classroom the great SUPERIORITY of Chartier.

A sixth grade student can learn it. It consists of the alphabet and 10 simple rules. That is all. Learn these under our instruction, practice for speed in writing and you have doubled your earning capacity. You have been trained for the business world. You are a competent stenographer.

Here Is What One of the Southern Wisconsin Business College Graduates Has Accomplished

Mr. North was graduated in June, 1907, having completed both our Business and Shorthand courses in about 10 months. He was immediately placed with the Janesville Wholesale Grocery Co. of this city as stenographer and billing clerk. In December, 1907, he decided to go West, having been offered an excellent position in Miles City, Montana with a large real estate and insurance concern. His promotion was rapid. He attributes his great success to his excellent training in the Sadler-Rowe Bookkeeping and Chartier Shorthand.

Many Others Are Winning Rapid Success

Do you know any of these young people? Write them.
Prentice Lewis, one of the head stenographers of Fairbanks-Morse Co., Beloit.
Leslie Biscoe, private secretary to one of the department managers International Harvester Co., Detroit.
Geo. L. Calne, head stenographer Janesville Wholesale Grocery Co.
Ernest W. Curtis, private secretary Reid, Murdock & Co., Chicago.
Jennie J. Cleland, stenographer Caloric Co., Janesville, Wis.
Clarence A. Wegner, head stenographer American Zinc Ore Separating Co., Platteville, Wis.
Georgia Finney, stenographer Hanson Furniture Co., Janesville, Wis.
Mamie Borkenhagen, stenographer Parker Pen Co., Janesville, Wis.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

NOTHING ever becomes unendurable until there is some way out of enduring it.

If divorce were not a possibility wouldn't a good many people who now "agree together that they can never agree" find some way to get along and in the end be the happier for it?

This is not in the least a preachment against divorce. As a court of last resort I approve of divorce thoroughly. It is only as a court of first resort that I object to it.

It's the divorce attitude rather than the divorce that does the harm.

I wish that every couple which decides to ask for a divorce on grounds of incompatibility of temper or similar grounds could be sent back by the judge to try it again for six months.

I wish at the end of that time they could be required to go to a church and swear as solemnly as they swore their marriage vows that they had each done all in their power to find the best points in each other and to be happy in each other's company. If they failed they should then be granted the divorce.

I believe that if they really did that there would be about half as many divorces as there now are.

People who argue for the granting of divorce on grounds of incompatibility of temper say that there can be no peace in the home where the husband and wife hate each other.

True, I think myself that the more quickly a home where hate reigns is broken up the better.

But isn't hate a matter of attitude? If a woman says to herself, "My husband and I do not agree. His little ways irritate me. Nothing about him pleases me. I am going to get a divorce," isn't everything he does bound to be wrong and isn't hate the inevitable result?

But if she says, "There are many things I do not like about my husband. I am disappointed in him, but I am married to him and I am going to stay married and find the good in him since that's the only way to get happiness out of the situation," isn't she going to succeed nine times out of ten?

I thoroughly believe that a great many people who have successfully obtained divorces often wish in their heart of hearts they were back in double harness.

Sometimes this feeling comes to the surface. Out in Los Angeles two people who had been divorced for six years met the other day.

"How are you?" said the woman.

"Lonely," said the man.

"So am I," said the woman. And the result was that they decided they could not be any more unhappy married than they had been divorced, and married again.

In the Hindu version of the creation is a little fable that may be interesting to any two people who are on the verge—or anywhere near the verge—of saying:

"We can't live together any longer."

Twashtri, the chief Hindu God, made woman and made a present of her to man.

Eight days later, man brought her back saying he was not happy with her. "My Lord, this creature you gave me poisons my existence. She chatters without rest. She takes all my time. She laughs for nothing at all and is always ill."

Twashtri took her back. Eight days later the man came to Twashtri again and said he was lonely and wanted the woman.

Twashtri returned her to him. Three days only passed before he brought her back again.

This time Twashtri said, "Go your way and do your best."

The man said, "I cannot be happy with her."

"Neither can you be happy without her," said Twashtri.

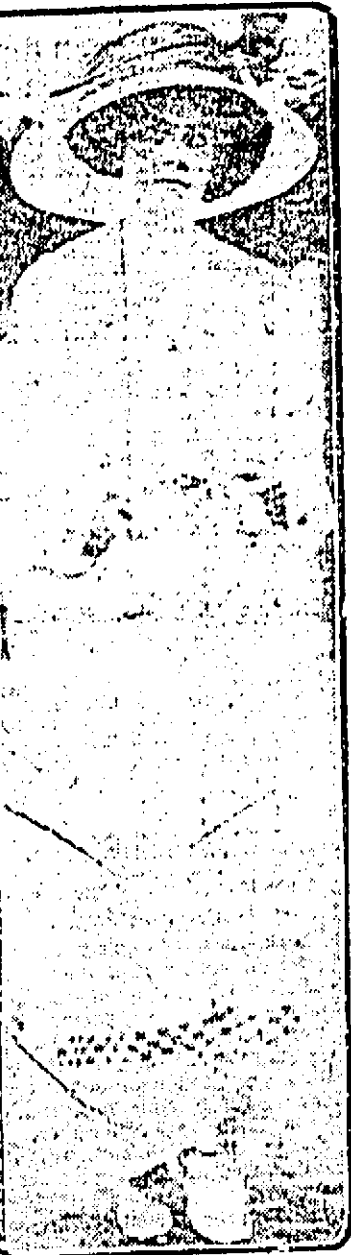

I wonder if things have changed a great deal since the Hindu creation.

NOVEL COAT SUIT.

A novel design for a coat suit of cloth is given above. The material, in accordance with the promised styles of the autumn and winter, was distinguished in a soft shade of tan. The coat, which reached to within a foot of the skirt-bottom, was laid in wide pleats from shoulder to hem, both back and front. The sleeves, following the style of the coat, were laid in deep tucks, those on the upper arm being slightly draped and caught with buttons of the material. Through the straps at the front a brown velvet ribbon was threaded, giving a chic and novel touch to the whole.

Millman Inquest Postponed.
Detroit, Mich., Sept. 25.—The coronor's inquest into the death of Maybelle Millman, whose dismembered body was found in Ecorse creek and the Detroit river in cement sacks, has been postponed until October 8. The prosecuting attorney requested the postponement, saying that he had not sufficient information so that he can proceed with the inquiry.

Wife Murderer Loses Appeal.
Columbus, O., Sept. 25.—Unless Gov. Harmon intercedes, Harry Edward Crooks, the Dayton wife murderer, will be electrocuted on October 1, the supreme court having announced its refusal to allow a petition in error to be filed.

Pays Penalty for Murder.
Richmond, Va., Sept. 25.—Howard H. Bragg was electrocuted in the penitentiary here for the murder of his brother-in-law, Thomas Drawboro in Rockbridge county last September.

Epilepsy, Fits

"My son was cured of a very bad case of epilepsy with Dr. Miles' Nervine." MRS. D. BAKER, Cleveland, Ohio.
"My little girl who was afflicted with St. Vitus' Dance is now entirely well after taking Dr. Miles' Nervine only four months."
These diseases have been cured in so many instances, that we do not think there is any longer any doubt that they are curable diseases. Being nervous diseases they yield to the soothing and strengthening influence of Dr. Miles' Nervine.
Though stubborn, persistent treatment is almost sure to effect a cure by restoring nervous energy. The first bottle will benefit. If not, your druggist will return your money.

PROUD OF COMMANDER PEARY.

Mrs. Robert E. Peary Sr., mother of Commander Peary and Mr. Peary's children, Robert Peary and Mary Peary.

Why She Went Sour.
"I felt kind of miffed," said the genial man who likes to occupy a lofty niche in everybody's affections, "when the religious lady at the foot of the table suddenly sored on me; but when I found that she had understood me to boast that my father—dear old Methodist preacher that he is—was a circus rider instead of a 'circus rider,' I didn't know that I could blame her."

Dede Can Forecast Trouble.
"I can always tell if there's any family difficulty brewing in my neighborhood," says Adam Dede, of Minn. noson. "It is a sure sign of family trouble, if you happen to hear a man say that he would like to have a goat eat grass from his mother-in-law's grave."

Needed Higher Wages.
"There, Panny! You have broken another vase. Your breakings this month amounts to more than your wages. What shall I do?" "Give me a raise."—Flegende Blatter.

DR. COOK CALLS FORMER GUIDE

SUMMONS MAN WHO CLIMBED MOUNT MCKINLEY WITH HIM.

PREPARES FOR PEARY WAR

Charges May Soon Be Made Public—Brooklyn Doctor Is Honored at Banquet by the Arctic Club of America.

New York, Sept. 25.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook has sent a telegram to Edward Barrill, at Hamilton, Mont., asking him to hurry to New York. Barrill was Cook's guide in the latter's ascent of Mount McKinley, and as it was announced several days ago that a lawyer representing Commander R. E. Peary had been retained at Seattle, Wash., to fully investigate all the details of reported ascent Cook is seeking to have Barrill come to New York. Friends of the doctor anticipate a bitter attack on his record in the controversy with Peary.

Guide Remains Silent.
Ever since Dr. Cook's claim to having reached the summit of Mount McKinley was questioned, Barrill has remained silent, although one dispatch quoted him as saying he would be ready to make a statement when Cook reached America.

Among the papers and documents which Commander Peary turned over to Gen. Thomas H. Hubbard in Maine are believed to be his alleged proofs that Cook did not reach the north pole, and from Gen. Hubbard's statement at his harbor it is presumed that the full context of the Peary charges will be made public in a few days, possibly next week.

Portland, Me., Sept. 25.—The arrival of Commander Peary at his summer residence on Eagle Island, in Casco Bay, was deferred until today, because of stormy weather and rough seas. It is understood he will remain at the island until the north pole controversy is settled, except for the trip to his harbor Sunday or Monday to furnish further information to Gen. Hubbard.

POLICE KEPT BUSY WITH RIOTS.

Many Injured—Cars Wrecked in Omaha—Settlement Possible To-day.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 25.—The police are still kept busy answering riot calls from all parts of the city in connection with the street car strike. Notwithstanding the activity of the police, not over half a dozen arrests were made, although dozens of cars were stoned and several members of their crews were injured.

A Sherman avenue car was attacked at Fourteenth and Cass streets in the downtown district, and all the windows broken, and the woodwork badly damaged. The conductor, Robert Davis, was knocked down and stoned, though not seriously hurt, while the motorman took to his heels. A squad of police arrived while the mob was still hurling bricks at the car, and four arrests were made. Officer Kearney was painfully, but not dangerously, hurt by being hit with a brick.

President Wattle's of the street car company held conferences with the mayors of Omaha, Council Bluffs, South Omaha, Florence and Benson, and with the directors of his company, and, while he declared that no definite results could be announced, he expressed the hope that at meetings to-day something tangible in the direction of a settlement would develop.

WILL NAME CENSUS TAKERS.

Their Appointments Will Be Made About January 1.

Washington, Sept. 25.—Between sixteen and eighteen hundred persons will be appointed as special agents of the census bureau about January 1 next, and a practical test of the qualifications of applicants for such positions will be given on November 3 next before the local board of civil service examiners in every state in the union.

The duties of such agents will be to collect statistics for the next census of manufactures, mines and quarries. As far as possible, it is desired to obtain persons who have had college or university courses in statistics or economics, or persons who have had experience in the accounting departments of manufacturing or other business establishments.

Applications will be accepted from women, but the opportunity for their appointment is slight.

Lost in the Arctic Circle.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 25.—George Caldwell, an official of the Canadian marine department, who started three years ago to make a trip from Chesterfield Inlet to the Arctic circle, has been given up for lost. It was expected that Caldwell, who was accompanied by two Eskimos, would turn up at Cape Fullerton last autumn, but advice received at the mounted police department state that he did not arrive at the post and nothing has since been heard from him.

Train Kills Father; Injures Son.
Sterling, Ill., Sept. 25.—John Shrader was instantly killed and his son, Frank, badly injured by being struck by a Chicago, Burlington & Quincy train at Walnut. The two horses which they were driving were also killed.

Well-Known Brewer Dead.
Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 25.—Henry Rahr, aged 44, a well-known brewer, died from a complication of diseases.

Has the Sad Conviction.

After a man has tried in vain to borrow a few paltry dollars you can't convince him that the world isn't growing wiser.

AN EPISODE.

When early summer warmed the air I cooed a maid with features fair, Yet ere the autumn leaves came down I was engaged to one nut-brown.

You say I'm fickle? No, I'm not. I'm true as steel in heart and thought. For though I won a nut-brown hand, it was the fair one's greatly tanned. Find her lover.

Golfers living on the west side of the river, have challenged the members of the St. Joseph club living on the east side to a golf match to be played on the links in the course of a few days. The provisions of the challenge are that the losers shall give a dinner to the winning team at the clubhouse. The east siders have not yet accepted the challenge and the west siders say that their would-be opponents are lacking in the requisite supply of red corpuscles. The challengers will make up as large a team as possible to meet the Sunrise team if the deal is accepted.

WANTS MORE CANDIDATES

FOR DEPUTY GAME WARDEN

State Civil Service Commission Has

Received but Two Applications —Examination Oct. 2.

F. E. Doty of Madison, secretary of the state civil service commission, requests the Gazette to call attention to the competitive examination for the position of deputy game warden which is to be held on October 2. "We fear that we shall not receive a sufficient number of applications from your district," he writes. "At the present time we have two applications. The vacancy which now exists in your district will be filled as a result of this examination and it is to the interest of the people in your district, as well as to our interest, to find a good man for the place. Advise prospective candidates, who are desirable, to wire us for blanks, if necessary."

A Remarkable Vessel.

A floating bottom of 100 tons displacement, designed to expedite the shipment of coal from Cooke, has been launched in England by the Gooch

Ship-building and Repairing Company. The vessel, the only one of the kind in the world, will be fitted with a hydraulic hoist. By means of this small boats carrying about 40 tons of coal will be lifted bodily out of the water, tilted, and their contents shot into a vessel's hold. Many thousands of tons will thus be shipped in a day.

DIVA'S RUBY

ILLUSTRATIONS BY MARION CRAWFORD

AUTHOR OF "SARACINESCA" "ARITHUSIA"

Copyright, 1909, by MARION CRAWFORD

He himself, with his long Greek descent, was an aristocrat to the marrow, and smiled at the claims of men who traced their families back to the Crusaders. With the help of a legend or two and half a myth, he could almost make himself a far descendant of the Tyndarides. But what was that compared with the pedigree of the little thing in a blue serge frock? Her race went back to a time before Hesiod, before Homer, to a date that might be found in the annals of Egypt, but nowhere else in all the dim traditions of human history.

"No," he said, after a long pause. "I begin to understand. You had not told me that your father was a great man, and that his sires before him had joined hand to hand, from the hand of Adam himself."

"This polite speech, delivered in his best Tartar, though with sundry Turkish terminations and accents, somewhat mollified Baraka, and she pushed her little head backwards and upwards against the top of the dock chair, as if she was drawing herself up with pride. Also, not being used to European skirts, she stuck out one tiny foot a little further across the other, as she stretched herself, and she indirectly showed a pale-yellow silk ankle, round which she could have easily made her thumb most her second finger. Logothetti glanced at it.

"You will never understand," she said, but her tone had relaxed, and she made a concession. "If you will take me to him, and if he will not be my husband, I will let Spiro kill him."

"That might be better," Logothetti answered with extreme gravity, for he was quite sure that Spiro would never kill anybody. "If you will take an oath which I shall dictate, and swear to let Spiro do it, I will take you to the man you seek."

"What must be, must be," Baraka said in a tone of resignation. "When he is dead, Spiro can also kill me and take the rubies and the money."

"That would be a pity," observed the Greek, thoughtfully.

"Why a pity? It will be my portion. I will not kill myself because then I should go to hell-fire, but Spiro can do it very well. Why should I still live, then?"

"Because you are young and beautiful and rich enough to be very happy. Do you never look at your face in the mirror? The eyes of Baraka are like the pools of paradise, when the moon rose upon them the first time, her waist is as slender as a young willow, smiling that bends to the breath of a spring breeze, her mouth is a dark rose from Gullistan."

But Baraka interrupted him with a faint smile.

"You speak emptiness," she said quietly. "What is the oath, that I may swear it? Shall I take Allah, and the prophet, and the Angel Israfil to witness that I will keep my word? Shall I prick my hand and let the drops fall into your two hands that you may drink them? What shall I do and say? I am ready."

"You must swear an oath that my fathers swore before there were Christians or Mussulmen in the world when the old gods were still great."

"Speak, I will repeat any words you like. Is it a very solemn oath?"

"It is the most solemn that ever was sworn, for it is the oath of the

"You Will Never Understand," She Said.

gods themselves. I shall give it to you slowly, and you must try to pronounce it right, word by word, holding out your hands, like this, with the palms downwards."

"I am ready," said Baraka, doing as he bade her.

He quoted in Greek the oath that Hypnos dictates to Iliera in the "Iliad," and Baraka repeated each word, pronouncing as well as she could.

"I swear by the inviolable water of the Styx, and I lay one hand upon the all-nourishing earth, the other on the sparkling sea, that all the gods below may be our witnesses, even they that stand round about Kronos. Thus I swear!"

As he had anticipated, Baraka was much more impressed by the importance of the words she did not understand, than if she had, bound her self by any oath familiar to her.

"I am sorry," she said, "but what is done is done, and you would have it so."

She pressed her hand gently to her left side and felt the long steel bodkin, and sighed regretfully.

"You have sworn an oath that no man would dare to break," said Logothetti solemnly. "A man would rather kill pigs on the graves of his father and his mother than break it."

"I shall keep my word. Only take me quickly where I would be."

Logothetti produced a whistle from his pocket and blew on it, and a quarter-master answered the call, and was sent for the captain, who came in a few moments.

"Lead her about for Jersey and Carteret, captain," said the owner. "The sea is as flat as a board, and we will land there. You can go on to the Mediterranean without coaling, can you not?"

The captain said he could coal at Gibraltar, if necessary.

"Then take her to Naples, please, and wait for instructions."

Baraka understood nothing, but within two minutes she saw that the yacht was changing her course, for the afternoon sun was all at once pouring in on the deck, just beyond the end of her chair. She was satisfied, and nodded her approval.

"When shall we reach that place?" she asked lazily, and also turned her face to Logothetti.

"Allah knows," he answered gravely. She had been so well used to hearing that answer to all sorts of questions since she had been a child that she thought nothing of it, and waited awhile before speaking again. Her eyes studied the man's face almost unconsciously. He now wore a fez instead of a yachting cap, and he changed his expression. He no longer looked in the least like a European. The handsome red felt glowed like blood in the evening light, and the long black silk tassel hung backwards with a dashing air. There was something about him that reminded Baraka of Sand, and Sand had been a handsome man, even in her eyes, until the traveler had come to her father's house with his blue eyes and golden beard. But Sand had only seen her unveiled face once, and that was the last thing he saw when the ball from the Mauser went through his forehead.

"I mean," she asked after some time, "shall we be there to-morrow, or the next day? I see no land on this side; is there any on the other?"

"No," Logothetti answered, "there is no land near. Perhaps, far off, we might see a small island."

"Is that the place?" Baraka began to be interested at last.

"The place is far away. You must have patience. All hurry comes from Satan."

"I am not impatient," the girl answered mildly. "I am glad to rest in your ship, for I was very tired, more tired than I ever was when I was a child, and used to climb up the foothills to see Allah better. It is good to be in your ship for a while, and after that, what shall be, will be. It is Allah that knows."

"That is the truth," responded the Greek. "Allah knows. I said so just now. But I will tell you what I have decided, if you will listen."

"I listen."

"It is better that you should rest several days after all your weariness, and the man you seek will not run away, for he does not know that you are so near."

"But he may take another woman," Baraka objected, growing earnest at once. "Perhaps he has already! Then there will be two instead of one."

"Spiro," said Logothetti, with perfect truth, "would as soon kill two as one. I am sure, for he is a good servant. It will be the same to him. You call

"The statement of a Janesville citizen.

Mrs. M. Smith, 359 Center St., Janesville, Wis., says: "I suffered severely at times from attacks of rheumatism and backache. My side also pained me and I noticed that the kidney secretions passed too frequently. A neighbor told me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I went to the People's Drug Co. and procured a box. I began to feel better in a short time after commencing their use and the kidney secretions soon became clear and regular in passage. me a great man and a king. I am not a king, for I have no kingdom, though some kingdoms would like to have as much ready money as I. But here, on the ship, I am the master, not only because it is mine, but because the men are bound by English law to obey me; and if they should refuse and overpower me, and take my ship where I do not wish to go, the laws of all nations would give me the right to put them all into prison at once, for a long time. Therefore when I say, 'Go to a certain place,' they take the ship there, according to their knowledge, for they are trained to that business and can guide the vessel towards any place in the world, though they cannot see land till they reach it. Do you understand all these things?"

"I understand," Baraka answered, smiling. "But I am not bound to obey you, and at least I can beg you to do what I ask, and I think you will do it."

Her voice grew suddenly soft, and almost tender, for though she was only a Tartar girl, and very young and slim, she was a woman. Eve had not had long experience of talking when she explained to Adam the properties of apples.

Logothetti answered her smile and her tone.

"I shall do what you ask me, but I shall do it slowly rather than quickly, because that will be better for you in the end. If we had gone on as we were going, we should have got to land tonight, but to a wretched little town from which we should have had to take a night train, hot and dirty and dusty, all the way to Paris. That would not help you to rest, would it?"

"Oh, no! I wish to sleep again in your ship, once, twice, till I cannot sleep any more. Then you will take me to the place."

"That is what you shall do. To that end I gave orders this afternoon."

"You are wise, as well as great," Baraka said.

TAFT WILL SPEAK TO MORMONS.

Protest by Protestant Divines Does Not Deter the President.

Provo, Utah, Sept. 25.—The difficulty which had arisen during the last two days over the proposal to have President Taft attend an organ recital at the Mormon tabernacle to-day and to make an address there on Sunday morning, was finally adjusted at a conference between the president and Senator Reed Smoot, en route to this city.

There had arisen an informal protest from the Protestant ministers of Salt Lake City, and President Taft had wired asking that his Sunday morning be left free so that he might attend church in an unofficial capacity wherever he might elect.

It was agreed that the president should speak at the tabernacle at an earlier hour than previously scheduled; that he would review a living flag of school children immediately after and at 11 o'clock attend services at his own church, the Unitarian. The church which the president will attend is said to be the smallest in Utah.

In his address to the citizens of Provo, 80 per cent. of whom are Mormons, President Taft's appeal to the patriotism of the people, his congratulations to them on their evidences of prosperity and the fact that they were a community of the law, abiding by the laws, and determined that every community of which they were a part should be a lawful community, called forth continuing cheers.

STORM VICTIMS MORE THAN 100.

Fearful List Will Be Increased as Many Small Vessels Lost.

New Orleans, Sept. 25.—With the list of dead from Monday's tropical hurricane well above a hundred every indication points to a much larger increase of the number of the perished. Many small sloops and launches are lying wrecked on the gulf shores of Louisiana and Mississippi, and there seems to be little doubt but that at least some of their occupants were lost.

Anxiety for the safety of steamers bound for New Orleans during the hurricane period on the gulf has been relieved.

Nearly all of these vessels were many hours late, but finally arrived at this port with the exception of the Utah, which is four days overdue from Puerto Cortez.

News of the loss of the oyster lugger Washington and the drowning of her captain, Dominic Dondy, was received here. Many other vessels of this class are reported missing.

Forty People Injured at Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 25.—A crowded trolley car bound for the World's Fair grounds, jumped the track at Fourteenth avenue and East Fortth street, a block from the fair entrance, and crashed into a building. Forty persons were injured, one perhaps fatally. The seriously hurt were taken to the emergency hospital in the exposition grounds.

Among the injured were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farnsworth, Denver, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Scofield, Council Bluffs, Ia.; P. J. Caldwell and B. C. Hatney, Youngstown, O. These were not seriously hurt.

Must Define Car "Jam."

Washington, Sept. 25.—That the Interstate commerce commission must promulgate a regulation specifying what constitutes a "crowded street car," before the act of congress approved May 23, 1908, giving the commission jurisdiction over street car lines in the District of Columbia, can be enforced, is the substance of a decision handed down by Judge Mallow, chief of the United States division of the price court.

He will shortly move over to Lake Hannington, in Nyanza province, and continue his hunting there.

CAPTURE U.S. REVENUE CUTTER.

Unconfirmed Rumor Says Moro Pirates Take Ship, Murder Crew.

Manila, Sept. 25.—Official dispatches from southern ports say it is rumored that the revenue cutter Soru has been captured by Moro pirates and the crew murdered. The authorities have been unable to secure confirmation of the rumor.

Tribesmen Sue for Peace.

Madrid, Sept. 25.—An official dispatch received here from the Hont-Slear territory, which was occupied by the Spanish Wednesday, says that the main body of the enemy is suing for peace and that hostilities have been suspended during the negotiations.

Leprosy Germ in Soldier's Skin.

Washington, Sept. 25.—Dr. G. A. Hansen, the discoverer of the leprosy bacillus, has officially announced that he found the bacillus in the skin of John Early, the North Carolina soldier whose detention here for many months attracted wide attention.

Eight Persons Hurt in Collision.

Hoone, Ia., Sept. 25.—Eight persons were hurt, none fatally, when two interurban cars on the Port Dodge, Des Moines and Southern crashed together head on, near here. Among the injured were: J. J. Brockman of St. Louis and Robert Felton, of Gregory, S. D.
